Sharp-Eyed Victorians Spot Long-Nosed Monster

Caddy's nose is about a foot long, S. M. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, agree. The pair sighted Caddy in Cordova Bay.

Mrs. John M. Wyper thought she was first to spot Caddy yesterday, but the Hobbs household had seen it earlier.

Waves Wreak Havoc

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Waves blasted 200 feet up the rocky cliffs of St. John's harbor Monday in the worst storm in memory, tearing down wharves and fishing stages by the score.

Giant waves 100 feet across churned through the narrow harbor entrance most of the day and occasional breakers shot more than 200 feet into the air.

Fort Amherst, 132 feet above sea level, was dripping as the huge breakers shot water over its glass dome.

Shattered timbers littered the frothy water as wharf after wharf fell victim to high seas in the usually calm harbor.

Spectators swarmed up historic Signal Hill where Marconi received his first wireless message 54 years ago to watch the angry water as fishermen worked feverishly to save what gear they could.

Veteran fishermen said they couldn't recall anything like it. There were no injuries.

Raymond Riche, one dory fisherman, saw his wharf split under the constant pressure of the seas and it slowly was pulled out to sea, carrying with it his traps, winch, boom and a stack of timber.

Ripple Rock First Stage Plans Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver geologist said Monday the first stage has been completed for removal of Ripple Rock, British Columbia's "graveyard of ships."

Dr. Victor Dolmage, asked by the federal government to study a report prepared by a national research advisory committee, said the "first stage" of his plans now is completed and on its way to Ottawa.

In the throne speech last week the government announced plans for destruction of the navigation hazard, 125 miles north of here. The project is expected to cost about $2,000,000.

Dr. Dolmage is known to favor tunneling into the rock and filling it with explosives. The detonation of 500,000 pounds of explosive is expected to blow the top off the rock and leave a 40-foot-deep channel clear for navigation.

Busy Serpent Sighted Again

'Awfully Big Loon' Just Caddy After Duck Dinner

When Cadborosaurus or some other sea monster swam past the Cordova Bay home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hobbs a couple of weeks ago, Mr. Hobbs called it to the attention of his friend John M. Wyper farther along the bay.

So when the monster swam by looking for a duck dinner yesterday about 3.30 p.m., Mrs. Wyper telephoned Mr. Hobbs.

But Mr. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, already had seen it.

Mr. Hobbs looked up from his chore of sawing wood on the beach and saw Caddy—or some other strange creature, because he says there must be "heaven knows how many kinds"—about 35 feet away. Mrs. Hobbs watched at the same time from a window above the beach.

Other persons who have seen Cadborosaurus recently at Sooke and Albert Head have described the animal as having a head as big as a horse's, rising a foot or 18 inches above the water, and a second hump which rose from the water and sank from view at the same time as the head.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Smith, who saw Caddy at Sooke a week ago, said it had a short, blunt nose. They said it appeared jet black and shiny, and appeared to have ears or horns.

Jack Daley and Jack Salsbury, who saw Caddy while they were fishing at Albert Head on November 20, said it at first appeared black, but up close turned out to be light fawn in color. It appeared to have a long, V-shaped nose when they saw it heading toward them, but a side view indicated its head was "like a frog's in shape, bulgy on top."

Mrs. Wyper, who lives at 5051 Cordova Bay Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs, who live at the foot of Walema Avenue, saw only the head of the monster on hump. The head, they said, was light brown, and the nose about a foot long. No neck was visible.

"I saw a stirring in the water," Mrs. Wyper said. "I thought, 'That's an awfully big loon.'

"Then, by jove, up came this big head, brown, or rather, like this window sill (light brown) in color.

"Mr. Hobbs called Mr. Wyper on the last occasion, so I called him this time, but he had already seen it."

Mrs. Wyper, who was in a boat with friends last summer when one of them saw a big head rise out of the water, said the sea birds are afraid of the monster.

"First all the seagulls get up in the air," she said, "and then they must communicate what they fear to the ducks, because the ducks, which don't usually fly, get off the water too."

Mr. Hobbs, pulling calmly on his pipe, agreed that the creature "is definitely after ducks."

It came up near one duck, which flew away, he said, then submerged and didn't come up until it was close to the next duck in sight, about 300 yards away.

"It's not what everyone calls Caddy that thing with the loops," he said.

"It had a round head, a snout a foot long, and we could just see water under the snout. There was no long neck showing. We couldn't see any eyes. It probably has small eyes. And there was no sign of ears. It was a light fawny color."

"This thing obviously follows the coastline," Mrs. Hobbs interjected. "It could easily be walking along the bottom and sticking its head and shoulders up and grabbing ducks from underneath, I think."

(The water at Cordova Bay is shallow just offshore.)

"It just goes up and down without any commotion," Mr. Hobbs said. "It hasn't a rolling motion, like a porpoise or a killer whale."

What they saw 10 days or two weeks ago was exactly the same thing, he added. They were having lunch at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs have been residents of the coast since 1908, and have seen most of the usual marine creatures.

"And dad isn't a person who would ever exaggerate," Mrs. Hobbs said.

Mrs. Wyper also has seen "seals, porpoises, whales and sea lions—what we call old grandfather walruses—and all those things," but she is sure the sea monster is none of them.

Court Agrees Nudes Just Part of Landscape

EDINBURGH (AP)—David George Henderson Monday was acquitted of selling indecent books after his lawyer told the court: "This is the age of the pin-up girl: the age of the Bikini bathing costume. These books were merely pictures of nude women. They are part of the modern 20th century landscape. There is nothing suggestive about them."

Congress Viewed By Anxious Eyes

OTTAWA (CP) — Deep anxiety reigns in trade quarters here as officials watch to see what Congress will do with President Eisenhower's proposals to reduce United States tariffs and clip customs red tape.

For almost two years—ever since Prime Minister St. Laurent made a personal appeal to President Eisenhower—the Canadian government has been waiting for the U.S. to take a "bold lead" toward progress in freeing world trade.

American moves have been discouraging, but spirits here were lifted slightly Monday when President Eisenhower appealed to the new Congress to reduce American tariffs by 5 per cent annually over a period of three years, to simplify U.S. import procedure and increase the duty-free allowances for American tourists.

Canadian trade and finance officials said an over-all reduction in American tariffs of 15 per cent is not large, but it is a "move in the right direction." There still were a lot of anxiety and doubts, however, as to whether the program will get through Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress again Monday for power to lower tariffs 15 per cent as part of a program to improve foreign trade and strengthen "the forces of freedom" in their struggles against communism.

"It is essential for the security of the United States and the rest of the free world," Eisenhower said in a special message, "that the United States take the leadership in promoting the achievement of those high levels of trade that will bring to all the economic strength upon which the freedom and security of all depends."

As the president himself noted, the "moderate, gradual, reciprocal program" he proposed was largely a repitition of the one that got nowhere in the last Congress.

The heart of it is a renewed request to continue the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for three years, with additional authority for Eisenhower to cut tariffs by five per cent each year. He promised there would be "no sudden or radical tariff reductions."

Fairey Demands Pension Changes

OTTAWA (CP) — A First World War veteran who describes himself as a rebel on the matter of war veterans' allowances said last night it's not true that service in battle ages a man prematurely. At least not every man.

Lt.-Col. Frank T. Fairey, Liberal member for Victoria, said in the Commons the allowances were set initially on the unwarranted assumption that those who served in battle areas are prematurely old.

Col. Fairey said some veterans have been impaired physically and mentally.

He suggested standards be set up whereby veterans could prove disability by reason of battle fatigue and become eligible for disability pensions instead of veterans' allowances.

Measure Hits B.C. Plan

Ottawa Acts Fast On Water Control

New Legislation Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government Monday proposed to tighten its grip on the use of water in international rivers and to loosen its control over the export of gas and oil.

Two measures introduced in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe—the first government bills of the session—would:

1. Require anyone—including a provincial government—to get a federal license for any works affecting the flow on the Canadian side of a river running into the United States.

2. Remove the federal government's power to impose export duties on gas, oil and other fluids, while retaining this authority for electricity exports.

3. Cut down the government's unrestricted authority to cancel licenses for these exports.

4. Make a federal license necessary for the import of gas.

DISAGREEMENT

The water measure originated in part from a disagreement between the federal and British Columbia governments over the use of Columbia River water for electricity, and its passage would assure the central government of the whip hand in that dispute.

It would enable the cabinet here to block a pending arrangement between B.C. and the Kaiser aluminum interests of the U.S. for the use of Columbia River water to generate power for Kaiser. Federal authorities consider the deal would not give B.C. sufficient returns and would not conform to longrange planning for Columbia development.

The bill would impose penalties for violation ranging from a $500 fine to a $5000 fine plus five years' imprisonment. Works constructed in violation of the act would be forfeited to the government.

The licensing and penalty provisions would be waived for a period of one year for projects in existence on the day the measure came into force.

FAVORABLE EFFECT

The relaxation of gas and export provisions federal authorities said should have a favorable effect on U.S. federal power commission treatment of two applications involving huge Canadian natural gas pipeline projects.

These are the $300,000,000 Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., proposal to bring gas east from Alberta and Westcoast Transmission Company's $100,000,000 project to carry Peace River area gas through British Columbia and into the United States. Both involve heavy sales in the U.S. market.

An original bid by Westcoast to reach the U.S. market was rejected by the U.S. commission last year, largely on the ground of claimed uncertainty as to continuity of supply should the Canadian government revoke Westcoast's export license.

Under the new bill, the government's unlimited revocation authority would be reduced to cases where a licensee breached the conditions of his license and refused to comply after the violation had been drawn to his attention.

NEVER EXERCISED

Removal of duty-imposing powers on exports of gas and oil eliminates a provision that has never been exercised. However, a duty on electricity export has been charged for many years. It amounts to 3-100 cent per kilowatt hour.

Introduction of import licenses for gas, officials said, will give federal authorities a stronger hand in seeing that Canadian markets are filled by Canadian gas when it is available.

A permit from the federal board of transport commissioners already is needed to construct and operate pipelines carrying gas across the border.

The new bill will replace the 1907 Electricity and Fluid Exportation Act. It would come into effect on a date to be proclaimed by the cabinet after parliamentary passage.

'Revolt' Staged By Lepers

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—Police reinforcements were sent by speedboat to Trinidad's leper colony on Chacachacare Island Monday when 300 inmates were reported to have wrested control from settlement authorities.

Reports reaching the mainland said an order ousting Dr. Michael Corros had created such hostility among the lepers that the nuns who care for them had been forced to seek police protection.

The health administration of this British island ordered the superintendent to leave the colony Friday.

Corros was still on the island when his relief, Dr. Young Lao, arrived during the week end. The patients issued an ultimatum, "Dr. Corros or nobody."

BAYFIELD, Colo. (CP)—Sissie, a farm collie found her aged, crippled master pinned beneath the steering wheel of a runaway tractor yesterday and dug frantically in the frozen earth and snow which covered his face until he was able to work free from the death trap.

The farmer, 69-year-old Frank Montgomery, made his way painfully up a hill to his home despite a fractured back and summoned a doctor.

In Slaying of Priest

Three Quebec Youths Face Murder Charge

BRANDON (CP)—A charge of murder was read Monday to three Quebec youths in the slaying of a poor Roman Catholic parish priest, shot three times and left to die in his car in a roadside ditch six miles north-east of here.

Police said robbery apparently was the motive for the shooting Sunday of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta. Church authorities said the priest probably would have given his money for the asking—in his tiny parish he was known as "the penniless priest of Edouard" because he was repeatedly giving away even his meagre allowance.

BODY FOUND

The bullet-pierced body of Father Quirion was found by a passing motorist on the floor of his late-model car, which the diocese had given him.

Arraigned in Brandon city police court Monday were Guy Ferragne, 18, of Riviere des Prairies; Claude Paquin, 17, and Gerard J. Yvon De Tonnancourt, 17, both of Montreal. The youths are Roman Catholics.

They were formally charged with murder after the latter two had been transferred from juvenile court. All were remanded one week without plea.

A packed courtroom heard the charge read through a French-speaking interpreter after the three youths had been brought in handcuffed and guarded by RCMP officers.

B.C. Millionaire To Fight $10,000,000 Lien

VANCOUVER (CP)—George W. Norgan, Vancouver millionaire, announced Monday he will fight a $10,000,000 lien filed against him by the United States revenue department.

The lien was filed Friday in San Francisco against Mr. Norgan, one of three Vancouver directors of United Distillers of Canada Ltd. who were indicted by a U.S. federal grand jury in New York last May on charges involving evasion of $17,400,000 in income taxes.

"The allegations against me are false," Mr. Norgan said in a prepared statement released to the press.

"I have not received a dollar of income from any source on which taxes have not been paid. The extravagant amount claimed by the U.S. internal revenue department itself proves its absurdity.

"For my part," Mr. Norgan's statement said, "I do not intend to be the victim of a jumping contest between two governments.

"I have instructed my lawyers to fight the United States government's tax claim."

Isadore J. Klein and Albert McLennan, both of Vancouver, and six U.S. citizens were also indicted by the New York grand jury.

The charges arose out of the wartime sale in the U.S. of Harwood's Canadian whisky. The U.S. government charged that Norgan and three partners invested $1,000 each in a Canadian whisky firm and by the end of the war had made a profit of $20,000,000 on which no taxes were paid.

Mr. Norgan in his statement denied having liquor transactions in the United States.

Army of Jobless 600,000 Strong Feared by Rowe

Compiled from CP Dispatches

OTTAWA—There will be 600,000 jobless in Canada within two months if last year's unemployment trend continues, W. Earl Rowe, acting leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, told the Commons yesterday.

Both Mr. Rowe and CCF leader M. J. Coldwell moved motions of non-confidence in the government as debate centred on an attack on government unemployment and trade policies.

Mr. Coldwell said higher unemployment insurance in the winter and construction of public works does not get to the root of the problem though it does provide temporary relief.

"The government is locking the stable after the horse has gone," he said, and Mr. Rowe added, "It's like giving the baby cough medicine and leaving the window up."

Conservatives said the government has failed to combat six problems: unemployment, retention and expansion of Canadian markets abroad, taxation relief, elimination of waste and extravagance in government, encouragement of the processing of Canadian natural resources in Canada and a contributory health plan.

Mr. Coldwell added a seventh: the government has "deliberately returned to the policy of uncontrolled— and unplanned private enterprise which resulted in the depression and unemployment of pre-war years and has failed to undertake the economic planning" needed to combat unemployment.

Mr. Rowe said Canada's trade balance has dropped from a $325,000,000 surplus to a $200,000,000 deficit in more than two years.

Mr. St. Laurent agreed that "not very much" could be accomplished by spending on public works, and "said what was needed was something to stimulate the economy generally.

He said there had been some unemployment every year for the last three or four years, but the situation had eased as the season advanced and there was reason to expect it would do so again.

Sloan Has Free Hand in Probe

BY RAY BAINES
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Unlimited terms of reference have been allowed Chief Justice Gordon Sloan for a full-scale investigation of B.C.'s forest industry he will conduct this year.

The provincial cabinet yesterday set out a 13-point list of suggested subjects for the survey, made it clear they were inclusive "but not limiting" in any way.

Chief Justice Sloan, who undertook a survey of the forestry situation in 1945, has agreed to act as a one-man royal commission this year for a second look at the industry. In his 1945 report he recommended a further review in not more than 10 years.

The chief justice has been given a completely free hand to call witnesses, hire counsel and other administrative assistance he may need for the survey, expected to take at least a year.

Included in the suggested terms of reference is the one subject which has caused the most controversy in B.C.'s present system of forest management.

He has been asked to study the "acquisition of rights to forest lands and timber and the tenure of such rights, including the existing rights and tenures, and the extent to which adequate and proper exercise of these rights thereunder has been made."

The government has also suggested that Chief Justice Sloan consider legislation and amendments which may correct any faults he may find in the present system of tenure.

They say the government should have slapped a total freeze order on all applications until the result of the survey is known.

Other subjects suggested in the very broad and extensive terms of reference are:

Extent, nature and value of the forest resources and conservation and protection of them;

Establishment of forest yield on a continuous production basis;

Forestation and research, education and instruction;

Use of the forest crop and its relationship to employment and social conditions;

Use and management of forest and wild lands for parks, recreation, grazing and wild life in relation to forest administration;

Relationship of forestry to soil conservation and maintenance of adequate forest cover with a view to regulation of moisture run-off and maintenance of levels of lakes and streams;

Forest financing and revenue to the Crown from forest resources.

The final suggested subject leaves the door open for Chief Justice Sloan by adding:

"Relevant facts in relation to any matter that in the opinion of the commission it is necessary to inquire into in order to carry out effectually the duties imposed on him herein."

Polar Jaunt Studied

LONDON (Reuters)—Vivian C. Fuchs, British explorer, said Monday that a plan for the first overland spanning of the Antarctic continent has been under consideration by the British government for some time.

Fuchs, one of the planners of the venture, acknowledged that it would be an expensive proposition involving a trek of 2,000 miles over the roughest type of surface. He said the expedition, as now envisioned, would cross the polar continent from the Weddell sea, southeast of Cape Horn, to the Ross sea.

Seasonal Unemployment in City Continues with Week's Rise of 267

Unemployment continued its seasonal increase last week in Victoria, and at the end of the week there were 3,359 registered unemployed, or 267 more than at the end of the previous week.

But, said C. A. Mudge, National Employment Service manager, the increase was not as marked as it was last year at the same time.

The total, he said, was 553 less than in the first week of January, 1954.

Men seeking work last week through the Victoria office totaled 2,420, 600 fewer than last January, and women totaled 939, 47 more than last January.

In the men's field, Mr. Mudge said, 160 fewer construction tradesmen were looking for work last week in Victoria than last January; 90 fewer metal-working tradesmen, and 204 fewer unskilled laborers. Service, sales, clerical and professional occupations were showing slightly higher figures, he said.

Increase in the number of women seeking work, Mr. Mudge said, reflected the continued trend of more women entering the labor market. The number of vacancies has shown little variation, he said.

Domestic workers and well-qualified stenographers are most in demand, the number of jobs for waitresses has fallen off and factory work is particularly scarce.

Garden Notes

Fruit Trees Need Fertilizer

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When we ration out our available supplies of manure and fertilizer among our garden plants, the fruit trees and bushes usually get the short end of the deal. Too many gardeners seem to consider a fruit tree, with its deep roots, to be capable of foraging for its own food without any assistance.

Like any other plants, fruit trees and bushes need adequate supplies of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, but in varying proportions depending on the kind of fruit. Plums, for instance, must have a lot of nitrogen if they are to grow and bear heavily, while gooseberries are so sensitive to any shortage of potash that the apple growers in the Okanagan sometimes plant a few gooseberries among their trees just to signal any lack of potash.

GROUP GARDEN

In order to simplify the feeding program, and to avoid waste of fertilizers, it is always a good idea to plant up the fruit garden with the potash lovers all grouped together — the apples, red currants and gooseberries all in one block — while the nitrogen lovers, the pears, plums, black currants, peaches and Morello cherries, are kept together in another.

Raspberries need a high level of both potash and nitrogen. It is wisest, therefore, to put black currants under the plums rather than gooseberries, for black currants will thrive on the high-nitrogen fertilizer given to the plums, while gooseberries would make soft, sappy, unfruitful growth under the same treatment.

SPRING DRESSING

Plums and black currants should have a spring dressing of half a cupful of sulphate of ammonia per square yard applied in late February or early March, while any compost or manure available should be spread as a surface mulch around the surface rooting black currants and raspberries.

Apples, gooseberries and red currants will only need nitrogen if they are cropping well and not making much in the way of vigorous growth. Most apples make too much wood and not enough fruit through an unbalanced excess of nitrogen, and this can be brought into balance by a February feed of two tablespoons of sulphate of potash per square yard. Wood ashes are an excellent source of potash, but you'll have to use six times as much.

INDICATE HUNGER

Apples, gooseberries and raspberries are quick to indicate their hunger for potash by showing a scorched brown margin to their leaves during June and July, with the gooseberries affected first.

Phosphorus is not needed in any great quantities by fruit, except strawberries, but trace elements are often lacking, especially in ground which never receives any animal manure.

When spreading fertilizer for fruit trees, remember that the really active feeding roots lie just beyond the spread of the branches. It is a waste of fertilizer to apply it close to the trunk.

You can't go ALL-OUT If you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. aa

By-Law on Works Delayed for Year

Ottawa's recent decision to assist in rebuilding Admirals Road has delayed consideration of a new public works by-law in Esquimalt until 1956, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said yesterday.

The reeve, who said last summer a new by-law was possible, added yesterday that "we will have all we can handle to do Admirals Road and a few other things this year."

Survey and plans for Admirals Road, expected to cost Ottawa $75,000 and Esquimalt $25,000, will be completed as soon as weather permits, said John Graeme, municipal engineer.

Other projects, all under local improvement, are the $40,000 sewer scheme for the Uganda-McNaughton district, roads in connection with the scheme, completion of sidewalks in the Colville wartime housing area and a start on curbs and gutters on Kinver, Paradise and Wollaston Streets.

"We shall have to mark time at that until the public works committee gets some idea of revenue coming in," the reeve said.

Only uncompleted item in the $300,000 works by-law started in August, 1952, is the Uganda McNaughton road work. Top priority in 1956 is expected to go to Lyall Street, which needs a major reconstruction job.

Merchants in Quandary

Photographs Sought Of Street Scene

Merchants in the 700 block of Yates Street are in a quandary.

To make the block attractive before Christmas they did an extensive decorating and lighting job, but forgot to photograph it for the record, according to Elliot Brown, manager of the Odeon Theatre. Now they want photographs.

Mr. Brown said several amateur cameramen had been seen taking pictures on the street and now he wonders if any of them were successful.

If any were they are invited to contact Mr. Brown at the Odeon.

insurance paid this bill today...

Every day the fire, automobile and casualty insurance business in Canada pays out more than half a million dollars in settling a variety of claims — from broken windows to explosions.

Honorable and prompt payment of all just claims is the goal of every insurance company and "good faith" on both sides must govern the handling of every insurance claim to keep the flow of payments moving.

Home Owners To Get Loans For Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—Owners of single houses will be able to borrow a maximum of $2,500 and apartment owners $6,250 under new home improvement loan regulations to come into effect February 1. Banks will extend the loans on a promissory note.

Note signers in most cases of married persons will be both husband and wife. Single persons will not require co-signers. Some variations may develop because of differences in provincial property laws.

Federal officials said Monday home owners will be able to get the loans, forecast in the throne speech, for almost any improvement.

They will be able to borrow money to build an extra room, put on a new roof, add a garage, install new heating, plumbing or air conditioning, put in electrical wiring, construct sewage disposal units, or simply to do some new painting or decorating.

Maximum life of the loans will run for three years on borrowings of $1,250 or less; five years for any higher amounts. The maximum interest will be 5½ per cent, the same as on National Housing Act mortgage loans.

The one major restriction is that the improvement loans will be available only to owners of single houses and small apartments.

Apartment owners must occupy space in their building to be eligible. Owners of buildings containing more than four apartments will not be eligible.

For apartments and other multiple dwellings the maximum loan will be $6,250. $2,500 on the first apartment and $1,250 on each additional unit up to a maximum of three.

Farmers in Denmark Cut Barley on Ice

COPENHAGEN (AP) Danish farmers have started cutting barley on ice. Last summer large agricultural areas in western Jutland were flooded and ice now covers the flooded fields. The farmers put their combines into operation in an attempt to salvage the barley crop protruding above the frozen covering. They said the crops are still usable.

Woman Remanded on False Pretenses Charge

Mrs. Lois B. Spalling of Esquimalt was remanded until today in municipal police court after completion yesterday of a preliminary hearing of a charge of false pretenses.

Mrs. Spalling, arrested and charged December 28, is alleged to have obtained a car by false pretenses December 16.

The woman obtained a 1952 [illegible] proval, returned the next day, when a bill of sale was completed, and tendered her cheque of $1,538.25 for the full price, George F. Argyle, of Esquimalt Service Ltd., testified.

He deposited the cheque the day it was received but it was returned from the bank. He tendered the cheque again December 22, after Mrs. Spalling told him money from Vancouver had been delayed in the mails, but the cheque was not honored, Mr. Argyle said.

A new cheque was given him by Mrs. Spalling but it, too, was not honored, he said.

Cross-examined by defense counsel Herbert L. Masters, the witness said the car registration was not completed by his firm until after December 16.

Constable Robert Pringle testified Mrs. Spalling came to the police station December 25 and asked if she could leave the car.

She had a telephone conversation with Mr. Argyle and [illegible] later that day he saw the car on the service station lot, he added.

A second charge of not having a driver's license will be heard today.

Wayne Robertson, 160 Beechwood Avenue, was remanded in Esquimalt police court until January 17 for a probation report, after he pleaded guilty yesterday to three charges of false pretenses.

Few List Appeals On Assessment

There have been few notices of appeal in Greater Victoria municipalities despite the initial uproar when the assessment notices went out in December.

Deadline for appeals is January 17 under the new school district court of revision system this year.

Victoria assistant assessor Jack Ozard said yesterday only six notices of appeal had come into the city out of 17,000 taxable properties. The court under the chairmanship of Forrest L. Shaw sits February 1 for the area.

FORTY IN SAANICH

Saanich reports 40 appeal notices out of 18,200 and Esquimalt officials said they had had none. Oak Bay officials were unable to supply information.

Assessments have been boosted about 30 per cent throughout Greater Victoria under the provincial government's assessment equalization scheme. Assurances by Premier W. A. C. Bennett that the increases will not necessarily mean similar tax increases have apparently forestalled what might have been an appeal landslide.

Assessors say that the real basis for appealing an assessment is on an individual property. If all the assessments go up the relative assessed value is unchanged.

B.C. Debt Reduction Claimed

Both the gross and net debts of the province have been reduced by the Social Credit government, the latter by $51,200,000, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said yesterday.

Addressing a meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade, the premier said that the cut amounted to $53 per capita on the net debt and $44 on the gross debt.

The people of the province, he said, had feared the "alarming increase" in the provincial debt run up by the former government. He said they had commented on it "with good reason."

Under the present government's "pay-as-you-go" policy, the premier said, the annual debt charges will have been reduced by more than $8,000,000.

GREATER THAN EVER

He said that despite these debt reductions the sinking funds of the province "enjoy a surplus greater than ever."

"Never before in the history of the province have our sinking funds been in a better position," he said, "each and every public obligation is now covered fully."

In his lengthy address, the premier stayed closely on the subject of the provincial fiscal policy. He answered what he called the "would-be critics" had had "endeavored to belittle the success had in reducing the provincial debt by over-emphasizing the scope and volume of certain debts that carry a provincial guarantee."

New Era for the West

APART from a gradual influx of settlement there had been few changes in the relative positions of the Canadian provinces respecting manufacturing until a few years ago, when new sources of energy were developed in the West. Alberta's oil and natural gas, and British Columbia's almost unlimited waterpower potential have come to the fore at the right time for Canada, which is visibly outgrowing the older tradition of an exclusively manufacturing East. While it is true that the bulk of immigration to this land is still siphoned heavily into Ontario and Quebec, by comparison with its former population the West has begun to fill up some of the vacant places in an impressive manner. An influx of nearly 500,000 people into British Columbia in a single decade is something that has not happened before.

It can be written now that at no future time is this province likely to have to rely solely upon its primary industries to maintain its standard of living unaided. Growing fast and giving every promise of continuing that way, manufacturing has now become big business in this province. The volume and value of secondary products produced within B.C. borders are climbing annually. If even a fraction of the latest but accessible waterpower potential is developed this accession of cheap energy would prove a tremendous spur to manufacturing, as it has done around the world wherever such resources have been tapped.

Given this new power and a moderate rate of settlement in the next few years the West may give an account of itself that would be unique in its history. North, central and southeastern areas in British Columbia that have lain industrially dormant for a century may become centres of new and far-reaching growth and development. Something of that nature is already in prospect, but its fulfilment would be the real spur to the expansion of manufacturing in British Columbia.

That would give this province two sturdy strings to its bow: the primary products of the forest, mine, farm and the sea on the one hand, and on the other the processed development of some of these assets along with many others through manufacturing. Such an outcome would balance the economy of the West in a manner that has not been possible before. In time it could go far towards making Canada a more unified and stable nation, with a spreading of the man-hours input and its result in national income.

With such a background, the recent provincial trade mission to Europe conducted by Mr. Einar Gunderson takes on fresh meaning. British Columbia certainly has something to tell the world about itself and its opportunities. If our trade missions go abroad with a willingness to buy as well as to sell they will get an attentive hearing. That proved so in the case of B.C. steel orders from the United Kingdom, and counter arrangements for the sale of Okanagan apples overseas. It can prove so in a hundred different directions if we understand what it is we have to trade. Raw materials and energy on tap are a sound combination, an invitation to investment capital everywhere.

Mr. Frederick Jeune

IN these days of employment practices based on the idea that a man's usefulness in his calling ends when he reaches the age of 65 it is refreshing to read the life story of someone like the late Mr. Frederick John Jeune. Mr. Jeune was a sailmaker who in the 'eighties founded in Victoria a firm that was to become one of the few three-generation family concerns on the coast. He had turned 90 before he put down his needle and palm for the last time. Though he was the head of a company employing a large staff, this grand old man continued to practice his highly skilled trade right up to the day when, a nonagenarian, he began the brief retirement that ended in his death here last week.

His peculiarly shaped bench that is the badge of the sailmaker's profession got its satiny polish from the rubbing of countless thousands of yards of stiff canvass and fine-textured Egyptian cotton from which Mr. Jeune fashioned the driving power of Cape Horn square-riggers of an age long past and of the fast racing yachts of modern times. For more than 60 years Mr. Jeune sat at the same bench. At sea and ashore he plied his trade for the equivalent of almost two working lifetimes.

It was men like Mr. Jeune who "made" this coast in the vigorous years before the turn of the century, and among them he was always a leader. In his death Victoria loses one of its finest citizens, and the sorrow thus caused is sharpened by the knowledge that so few of his generation remain.

Well Worth Hearing

ANNOUNCEMENT that the PPCLI band from Calgary will play at the opening of the Legislature this month is a reminder that Victoria sees little of regular army bands. Navy bandsmen are a familiar sight and the community owes them thanks for many a fine performance and the part they play in local occasions. The RCAF band from Edmonton is a periodic visitor, coming here in support of recruiting missions, and is always popular. By contrast regular army bandsmen have been remote musical figures.

The PPCLI band is therefore due to be warmly welcomed. Military bands are invariably well worth hearing, and it is traditional in most lands that they tour the country in the musical equivalent of "showing the flag." Canada is a big country and perhaps it is not feasible to have its well-known regimental bands too far from their home depots, but Victoria would be glad to see and hear any of them at any time. While here the Princess Pats band will give two public concerts which are certain to invite a large turnout. The PPCLI have a former connection with the city, a factor that enhances the pleasure with which the band's visit is anticipated.

WHEN blue jeans are the rule almost from babyhood onwards perhaps one cannot say nay to the move to put Boy Scouts in long trousers. If the stage has been reached when the boys themselves want to hide their knees then nothing is left but to acquiesce. One hopes it is purely a sartorial matter and not a shrinking from the elements, since scouts even while boys are supposed to be spartan beings. Something will depart from the organization when it discards its shorts, however.

Clothes may not always make the man but assuredly a uniform makes the body of individuals who wear it, and the traditional shirt, shorts and hose have to date been a proud trademark. One could readily and pleasingly pick out a boy scout because of his exclusive garb. Even in long pants they may still be boy scouts but they are apt to look more like little men, which is not quite the same thing.

Reds Setting the Stage

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

IT will be surprising if United Nations Secretary-General Hammarskjold returns from Peiping without some offer of a deal from the Red Chinese for liberation of the American airmen they hold as spies.

The intensification of Red bomb attacks on Nationalist-held islands and the violence of Peiping's broadcast tirades against the United States seem to be setting the stage for driving a bargain through which Peiping can, in its estimation, come off the winner.

* * *

If Peiping is to make a gesture, this is the time for it. A gesture which ostensibly tends to decrease the immediate threat of war would be a powerful move at the moment, with the big conference of Asian and African nations due in April in Indonesia.

One dominating motive behind the conference seems to be to relieve the threat that war will erupt on the soil of the Asian continent. It is to Peiping's advantage to picture the United States as the real source of such a threat.

Peiping actually has stepped up its bombing of the Nationalist islands while announcing that because of American activity in Asia, "the danger of war is increasing." It accuses the United States of contemplating "direct action" to free the fliers.

All this sets the stage. Tension is increased. Peiping is in a good position to ease that tension. Even without any major American concessions, a Peiping gesture would be an extremely strong move at the moment to increase Red China's stature in advance of the Asian-African meeting.

Peiping now can, if it chooses, release the fliers without negating its propaganda that the U.S. is bent on war. On the contrary, such an act would aim at showing Peiping to the rest of Asia as the peace-seeker, and to its home folk as a government fighting a losing battle against the threat of war.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

GIBBON would have approved of CinemaScope, I thought as I watched the amplitude of "The Sign of the Pagan," for he employed panoramic vision as he wrote of Huns and Romans and here before his eyes, were he in Victoria this week, they would spring to life, and such large life too. Twice the size he ever imagined them in the flesh.

This new wide-screen photography is a boon to historical parade. Cecil B. de Mille must bemoan he was born 30 years too soon, for CinemaScope is precisely what suits the large-movement, spectacular-grouping type of picture of his bent. Small-room domesticities are apt to seem overblown when stretched so far, but for Attila the spacious scene was perfect.

Needful as well. Gibbon might have blinked as his history took a few strange turnings but he would have applauded the visual scope given to Attila. And a scourge who ranged from the Rhine to China, with a dozen side-trips in other directions, requires lots of room even when resurrected on a silver screen.

* * *

As this number one Hun of all time gradually absorbed my attention, and he is easily the dominating personality of the film, I began to wonder if in reality old-time villains were always unhandsome. The Huns were not beautiful to gaze upon; that much seems to be accepted. They had no bathtubs for instance. Gibbons describes them as short and broad with flat noses; but after all I suppose Attila could have been their matinee idol. Jack Palance is tall and scarcely muscular enough really to dispose of Herculanus as easily as he does, but since his nose looks as though he had run into Joe Louis in a dark alley on a dark night he has perfect verisimilitude for his part. His voice, however, a fine pliable instrument well under control, redeems his appearance. I am sure Attila himself, even if surprised, would have been pleased to hear it.

Compared to Attila, both for manly vigor and histrionic capacity, Jeff Chandler's Roman centurion is an anaemic being for all his well-groomed look, and that seems no way for a Roman to be. But as Gibbon would remind us were he to see this film, and it would be well worth his seeing, this was the period of the Great Decline.

That decline, be it noted, saw the sign of the cross shine the more luminously as the sign of the pagan faded, a point strong enough to cause a materialist to think twice. Even Attila, as you will observe if it happens you see this film, shrank from its light when the majestic Leo awed him into unease. Some old chroniclers aver that the apostles Peter and Paul visited Attila's camp and changed his purpose, but the film wisely avoids any such nuance.

* * *

The film sent me rummaging among old books, incidentally, to read again of Attila's most decisive battle—one of the world's greatest—on the wide plain of the Marne. Many Victorians know well the Marne, and sanguinary encounter there too. But this one, as an historian puts it, was "ruthless, manifold, immense, obstinate." Indeed it was. It lasted all day and when Attila and his Huns retired, defeated by a joint Romano-Gothic force, 282,000 slain lay on the ground.

What a scene that would have made for CinemaScope, I reflected, until I began to do some arithmetic. Allowing for 16 hours daylight, without pause for either lunch or dinner, this execution rate works out at 17,625 an hour; almost 300 per second. Not even 50 wide-screen cameras could cope with such manifold carnage and just as well too. Attila is destructive enough as it is and anyway these old war correspondents might have been using second-hand adding machines.

Strangely enough, by the time Attila went to his screen demise I found myself in some sympathy with him, although of course that might be because at the end it was a woman who let him down.

Reports from Ottawa

THE leading figure as Parliament begins its new session is, as always, the prime minister. But Mr. Louis St. Laurent dominates the national legislature passively; not actively, as Mr. Mackenzie King did.

Looking down from the Commons' galleries on opening day on the PM's white head, studying his finely-drawn features, one wondered how long this man would continue to lead the nation and the Liberal Party.

Seventy-three on Feb. 1, he is still a year short of the age at which King chose to retire. Not that that means much, with Churchill still in office at 80. But the last two years have weighed heavily on St. Laurent, what with the coronation, the election campaign, a round-the-world tour and a long and onerous session of Parliament.

His answer has been that he will serve as long as his health holds out and the people want him. But while he looks fit, his years cannot be ignored. So the eye flits from face to face in the group around him, whence his successor will come. Will it be Pearson or Pickersgill? Harris or Howe? Martin or Marler?

* * *

Opposite the PM, in the place of ailing George Drew, sits Earl Rowe, an MP almost continually since 1925 and an Old Guard Tory who was briefly a minister without portfolio in the dying days of the Bennett government.

Drew has designated Rowe to lead the Conservatives during his absence. There are abler Tories like John Diefenbaker and Donald Fleming. Even George Hees, the party president who is light on experience but long on energy, would give the House group more vibrant leadership than it is likely to get from Rowe.

But no worker who has to stay away from his job because of illness likes to see his temporary replacement do too well. The boss might get ideas. And the situation is doubly obnoxious if the replacement is known or suspected to have ambitions to snatch the job.

However, don't sell Rowe short. Fisheries Minister Sinclair, who in his carefree backbench days was a notable needler of the opposition, used to curb his tongue when Rowe was speaking: Reason: Rowe makes a far better speech when he's needled into anger.

* * *

There are 265 members in the Commons, and each is a story. Take the first Commoner, Speaker Rene Beaudoin. His eyes are bloodshot from reading thousands of pages of poorly-printed Hansards of 50 to 75 years ago. He's been at this self-imposed task since spring, digging out the words of earlier speakers to throw light on the Commons' rules of procedure. He may well become the first permanent speaker of the Canadian Commons. Or he may relinquish his robes in two or three years to enter the cabinet.

There's Stanley Knowles, former preacher and printer who is CCF leader Coldwell's chief lieutenant. One of the ablest and most conscientious MPs, Knowles has the strength and integrity of a Lincoln.

There's Chubby Power, former air minister and well-loved dean of the Commons, who had needed only the quality of dependability, and Jean-Francois Poulot, whose genius lacked only a balance wheel.

There are ambitious men, frustrated men, embittered men, and the odd fool and knave. But mostly the MPs are ordinary men who have won the respect of the folks back home. They are in Ottawa to do the job to the best of their abilities. They rarely scintillate, but Parliament and Canada are the better because of them.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

NOBODY is as helpless as the person who has never had any mishaps. When something does go wrong for these poor souls they are like babes in the woods. There is a type of motorist, for example, who keeps his car in such perfect condition that nothing ever goes amiss. He took it in for the 500 mile inspection when it was new; and right on the dot of 2,000 miles he took it in for that check-up. He never goes over 1,000 miles without having the oil changed. Long before he develops a squeak, he takes it in to the dealer and has all the body bolts tightened, the fan belt checked, carburetor cleaned, and a general tune-up as advertised.

All he knows about the car is that it starts when you turn the key and pull the starter; that it moves when you put it in gear, and that the brakes stop it. What is under the hood, or what dreadful things are concealed underneath the sleek, regularly polished body, he does not know, nor does he wish to know. He drives with care, never goes out on holidays, carries every kind of insurance there is and uses distilled water in his battery.

So, when the cotter pin falls out of the little bolt that connects the clutch pedal with the engine, and the pedal just goes clunk when he steps on it, out on a lovely, lonely road which hardly anybody ever uses, he is there with his wife and two small grandchildren who are already 15 minutes past their feeding time and it is 30 miles to home, we have on our hands a man so helpless, so frenzied, so panicked that our hearts should bleed for him; but they won't.

It is mishaps that make the man. You take the motorist who hurries his new car out to the nearest speedway and runs it at 80 just to see how it feels; who takes it in for the 500-mile check-up at 1,173; who forgets all about the 2,000-mile inspection; whose tires measure 24, 31, 28 and 17 pounds respectively; whose battery always has one cell dry, whose fan belt is loose, whose right rear wheel is out of line and the ammeter isn't registering. Fine.

He's had mishaps all his life. When anything happens to him, he just hitches a lift to the nearest service station, the tow truck brings him back, the guy fixes it. It's the most natural thing in the world.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Although the prophecies for everything that will happen in 1955 have been made, plans appear to be to go ahead with the year anyhow.

A rich oil magnate had descended on one of New York's big hotels. Irritated by the indifference of the staff to his great wealth, he determined to give them something to talk about.

At breakfast the following morning he said to the waiter: "Just bring me $20 worth of bacon and eggs."

The waiter shook his head. "Sorry," he replied, "but we do not serve half portions in this hotel."

On the Record

The Tyranny of Slogans

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE Kersten committee of the U.S. House of Representatives has issued a report on communist aggression containing advice that, if followed, would by every historic precedent plunge America into war, alone with more than half the world.

Sometimes I think future historians may trace the decline and fall of Western civilization to the tyranny of catch phrases. One of them, coined by the late Wendell Willkie, was "one world or no world." As one who observes no immediate or foreseeable prospect of one world in terms of any universal political, economic, social, legal, religious, defensive, or cultural entity, only the alternative of "no world" is offered—oblivion for the planet.

* * *

The Kersten committee sounds off with another such oracular pronunciamento. "Mankind will either be all free or all slave," expounding the thesis that "we cannot compromise with, make accommodation for, or enter into, any sort of agreement with tyranny.

I suppose a Congressional committee has the right to prophesy about the future of "mankind," but we will bet that mankind will never be "all free" or "all slave" in terms of universally accepted definitions. It certainly never has been, not for one single moment in human history, and there never has been a moment, either, when "free" (or self-governing — the Kersten committee avoids precise definitions) nations have not had to share the planet with subject states and accommodate themselves to one or another form of "tyranny."

* * *

I put these words in quotes because "freedom" and "tyranny" are not absolutes. A generation ago the Austro-Hungarian kingdom appeared as a "tyranny" to Czechs, Jugoslavs and northern Italians, all of whom were "liberated" following the First World War.

Shortly thereafter the freed Italians, under the "tyranny" of an Italian named Mussolini, exercised in turn a persecutory "tyranny" over the German-speaking population in northern Italy; the Czechs and Slovaks leaped from the "tyranny" of Austro-Hungary into the "tyranny" of Nazi Germany, from which they were again "liberated" into the "tyranny" of Russia, while the Jugoslavs bask in the glorious freedom of Marshal Tito's regime.

* * *

The Kersten committee sees only one tyrant—the Communist. Well, I have just finished reading in galley proofs Abd el Nasser's account of the Egyptian revolution in which the word "tyrant" often appears. But here the tyrant is Great Britain. In North Africa the "tyrant" is France; in Indonesia it was The Netherlands. And 30 Afro-Asian governments, including Red China, are convening in the spring in Jakarta to promote the final liquidation of tyrannous colonialism.

As for "accommodations," I patronize a shop where I brazenly buy paprika from Slovakia and Hungary, to which all good goulash experts are enslaved. The famous porcelain of West Germany is made, now as always, from clay imported from Czechoslovakia. Iron curtain or no iron curtain. Swedish furnaces are stoked with Polish coal, etc., etc.

* * *

Politically speaking, if no agreements can or should be made with tyranny, we should still be fighting an enlarged Korean war, and must eliminate every hope of reaching peaceful settlements at any points of friction.

The Kersten committee wants us to sever diplomatic relations with communist countries, terminate commercial treaties with them, and step up efforts to undermine their armed services and encourage defections—every one of these steps being an attitude of belligerency, most of them contrary to international law, and all of them in the past having been a preface to all-out war.

* * *

Anything less, according to the Kersten committee, is "appeasement" and, as such, certain to lead to war. So, according to this argument, it's war whichever way one turns, and an unlimited war at that for universal "liberation" provided one can ascertain what everybody wants to be liberated from.

* * *

We would like to be liberated from the tyranny of irresponsible slogans.

With the Classics

O Nature! I do not aspire
To be the highest in thy choir,—
To be a meteor in thy sky,
Or comet that may range on high;
Only a zephyr that may blow
Among the reeds by the river low;
Give me thy most privy place
Where to run my airy race.
In some withdrawn, unpublic mead
Let me sigh upon a reed,
Or in the woods, with leafy din,
Whisper the still evening in.

Safety Guards Urged by Jury

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that all Saanich municipal machinery be regularly inspected and safety guards be placed on air compressors.

The recommendations were made as a rider to a verdict of accidental death in the case of Elmo Reda, 35, of 2606 Wark Street. He was killed Wednesday when struck on the head by a metal elbow flung from an air compressor.

Thomas Kershaw, mechanical supervisor for Saanich, said he believed the pipe blew off because the threads of an elbow had been worn by vibration.

[illegible] was bending near the compressor when the pipe blew off.

The jury recommended that a chain be fastened to the air compressor pipe to prevent it from coming apart at the elbow.

Britain's TV Viewers Brace for Decameron

LONDON (NANA)—When the BBC served up a television version of George Orwell's gruesome novel, "1984," thousands of shocked viewers caused a nation-wide storm with their complaints.

Numerous viewers snorted satirically that if "1984" was a sample of the BBC's taste in drama, they would not be surprised even if it came up with Boccaccio's "Decameron"—lurid stories of naughty goings-on in medieval Italy.

Well, those satirical complainants had better brace themselves, for the "Decameron" is just what the BBC is planning to serve them soon.

North America Premiere Of Play Set at College

BY SHEILA HARDIE
Colonist Victoria College Reporter

A successful stage production in London during the coronation of Elizabeth II, "The Young Elizabeth," will be presented for the first time on this continent by the Victoria College Players' Club at the end of February.

Directing the North American premiere of the play from which the movie "Young Bess" was adapted, is Mrs. Flora Nicholson, well-known in Victoria and Mainland dramatic circles.

Roger Bishop, professor of English at the college, will be sponsor of the production. Almost all the work is to be done by students who must find time for evening practices during a period when many are preparing for examinations.

INTIMATE THEATRE

To be presented in the spacious Union Room, "The Young Elizabeth" will be "intimate theatre."

That is, the actors will be almost surrounded by their audience, on stage of several different levels, very much like the Penthouse Theatre at the University of Washington. There will be modern lighting effects and the costumes will be entirely new and original.

Authentic in all respects, the plot is a simple, moving story of the life of Elizabeth Tudor after the death of her father, Henry VIII, and before she became crowned.

Victoria audiences will see for the first time, through the medium of intimate stage, the following cast in the monumental story: Elizabeth, Pat Gray; Catherine Parr, Margaret Dobrocky; Mary, Marjorie Gilbart; Lady Ashley, Heather Macdougall; Lady Tyrwhit, Louise Warren; Lord Tyrwhit, Lorne Payne; Thomas Seymour, John Gittens; Peter Carew, Bill Woodbury; Thomas Parry, Lynn Sheldrake; Lord Dudley, Bill Carpentier; Bishop Gardner, Eric Allan; Wyatt, George Cummings; Amy, Barbara Jenkins; Varney, Russell Gurney; and prompter, Dale Elliott.

Retired Servants Return Officers

W. L. Llewellyn and Miss Lottie Bowron have been re-elected for third terms as president and vice-president, respectively, of the B.C. Retired Civil Servants' Association.

Other officers are John Morton, secretary; G. H. Thornbery, treasurer; and R. H. Moffat, auditor.

Executive committee includes Miss Marjory Holmes, Miss P. Walker, T. W. S. Parsons, H. T. Edwardson, H. J. Sceats, C. N. Hopper, E. T. Hodgkinson and W. Robbins.

A magnificent Gothic cathedral, begun in 1180, is a feature of Palermo on the island of Sicily.

Pianist Delights Audience With Sparkling Technique

Pianist Barbara Custance last night thrilled a large audience with her sparkling technique, clear cut phrasing, and glorious tone in recital at Victoria High School.

Highlight of the program was the Beethoven Sonata in D Minor containing a puckish syncopated allegro and a stirring adagio in which the cadences showed a brilliant mastery of technique. The plaintive lyrics had beauty and a dignity of expression.

BARBARA CUSTANCE

PLEASING MIXTURE

The allegretto, a pleasing mixture of rolling bass and ringing higher tones was followed by long and well-merited applause from the enthusiastic audience.

The remainder of the program ranged from Bach-Siloti's rich and powerful Organ Prelude in G Minor, through the delicate gay Bach Fantastic C Minor and three Brahm's Intermezzos in which Miss Custance brought to life the pensive, light-hearted, and romantic moods.

The artist's Brahms' Rhapsody was rhythmic and dy[illegible]ody of Gerwin's Prelude No. 2 will not soon be forgotten.

FITTING CLIMAX

A fitting climax to the evening however, was her brilliant rendition of Liszt's Polonaise in E Major. Miss Custance, who has studied in Canada and at London Royal Academy of Music, was called back several times by the tremendous ovation from an appreciative audience.—S.H.

Dbl.	Pass	4 ♡	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	4 ♠	Dbl.
All Pass

When you hve a five-trick hand, such as South's, it is natural to want to slap down the opponents who are brash enough to try to steal it from you—especially when you are vulnerable and they are not. South doubled the four diamond bid because he felt sure he could beat it. And so he could—by a single trick; the double would have increased the take by a big 50 points. But South forgot to consider the likelihood that North would not leave the double in.

West opened his singleton heart. East cashed the queen and ace and returned the deuce for partner to ruff. West returned the queen of clubs. South won, laid down the spade ace and shuddered when West showed out. He tried to cash two top diamonds, but East trumped the second round and took home the king of clubs. South ruffed the next club lead, cashed the king of spades and led his last diamond for North to ruff. East's overruff set the contract 800 points.

With so much strength in top diamonds, South should have foreseen that his partner would be likely to take out the double — especially with a weakish hand. So, galling as it was to let the opponents "get away with it," South should have passed the four diamond bid and taken a sure profit. With the same top-card strength but more of it in the suits other than diamonds, South might correctly double. Then, if North's strength were in diamonds, he could pass and play for penalties; if North's strength were elsewhere, South could furnish excellent support for any take-out.

North-South might have done somewhat better if north had allowed the four-heart double to stand, but they would still have lost 500 points—too much to pay for the privilege of holding a five-trick hand.

What Makes Gobel Go? (2)

'Dirty Bird' Now Last Word

BY HAROLD HEFFERNAN
North American Newspaper Alliance

HOLLYWOOD — Millions of radio listeners of the long ago chuckled as they repeated Joe Penner's personality trade-marked line, "Wanna Buy a Duck?" just as they did with Jack Pearl's famous Baron Munchausen query, "Vas you dere, Sharlie?"—and now come television and George Gobel to coin new and even madder additions to modern American slang. Samples:

"I'll be a dirty bird!"

"You can't hardly get them no more."

These and dozens of similarly silly sayings fall from the tight lips of the expressionless Gobel every Saturday night over NBC's video network, to be repeated for weeks by admiring home viewers who, in a scant three months, have made him the comedy king of television.

How does George think up those inanities?

"Some of the expressions I use on the show — most of them, in fact—I put together from things I have heard people say in my travels around the country," he explained. "Whenever I overhear something that strikes me as a little funny, I enter it in my notebook. You add these remarks or subtract—and sometimes you get something that will develop a chuckle, providing it's put across in the right way and in the right spot.

"Take the 'dirty bird' crack, for instance. I picked that one up from an air force instructor who was based in Oklahoma with me for three years during the war. Found myself going around saying it just like he did. And when we started talking about doing this TV show, one of the writers heard me use the line in my regular conservation. He up and decided it should become a part of the act."

Greatest satisfaction in this young (he's only 34) comic's sudden TV fame is that after eight years of touring the country He can enjoy some family life—at least one day a week, on Sunday. Since his marriage, this past Christmas was the first he'd been able to spend at home.

George's affection for his wife, Alice, the three children and his father, Herman, a retired grocer who still lives in the modest Chicago home where George was reared, is reflected in nearly every one of his TV programs. Seldom does he pass up an opportunity to refer to one or more of his folks by name.

"Oh, that," says George, blushing. "It's all strictly commercial, makes the show look a little more intimate, that's all."

But you know he's off base there because any casual conversation with him that lasts more than a couple of minutes invariably brings out an anecdote or two about Alice, Gregg, Georgia or Baby Leslie.

As soon becomes the case with all top amusement personalities, fan mail is descending on TV's new comedy idol by the ever-increasing sackful—and is presenting an expensive problem.

Last week his count had run to 1,800. It is increasing daily. After the first show, George, the dreamer, tried to answer the mail himself. He gave up after the second day. The one secretary who was hired for the job then now has three assistants and is clamoring for another. In addition, a special mailing service takes care of all the requests for photographs.

Every letter addressed to him is answered. George insists on that. He seldom gets time—writer conferences and rehearsals take up an average of 10 hours daily — to have a look at more than a few of them.

"My letter-writers definitely aren't the ga-ga type, but are serious-minded folks who want to help me out—and themselves at the same time," said George. "You know, every one of us at heart is secretly a frustrated writer. Seeing me up there on the TV screen, apparently struggling hard to keep going, arouses these nice people. They want to help out. So, I get all kinds of ideas for sketches and blackouts and gags and the like. Some of them draw diagrams so I'll be sure to understand.

NOTHING USED

"Naturally, we use absolutely none of these contributions. We couldn't legally afford to do so. All the things I do and say are sweated out the week before over in our 'writers' cottage'. And when I say 'sweat' I mean exactly that.

"It's not a bit funny trying to be funny, week after week—even when you own a fine long-term contract. But don't get me wrong, please. I never imagined I could be so happy in show business as I am right here now.

"Believe me, every time I see a television set, anywhere, on or off, I walk over quick and pat it softly—and thankfully."

Local Aircraft Landings Higher by 30 Per Cent

Further evidence of the growth of Greater Victoria and the boom in air travel in this area is a 30 per cent increase in total number of aircraft landings and take-offs at Patricia Bay Airport since 1951 with December's figures still to come.

T. G. How of Vancouver, district controller of air services for the department of transport, said the 1954 11-month total at the Greater Victoria airport was 52,907, an increase of almost 3,000 flights over the previous full year.

Figure in 1951 was 40,734, and the following year brought a total of 45,744, with the biggest single annual increase during the four-year period.

Increase in 1952 was almost as large, as the airport recorded a total of 50,123 flights.

Mr. How's figures include commercial, military and private traffic and come a few weeks after Trans-Canada Airlines said 1954 saw a 10 per cent increase in air traffic here to give the Victoria section of the firm the busiest year in its history.

CWAC Officer To Inspect Local Units

Captain F. K. L. Trusdale, CWAC staff officer for Western Army Command, will visit Victoria today and Wednesday to inspect CWAC personnel and organization here.

There are 18 CWAC members employed as clerks in the various militia units at Bay Street Armoury.

The new establishment of the Battery calls for more than 10 times that number to be employed in clerical and non-operational roles and it is likely a vigorous recruiting campaign will be started shortly.

Behind The Glass

BY JIM TANG

CONSOLS PLAYOFF TONIGHT: Pinks skipped by Tony Gutoski and either Frank Peturrson or Eric Bullock will represent the city in the British Consols Vancouver Island zone finals, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at the Victoria Curling Club.

While Gutoski's rink went to compile a 9-0 record in the round-robin series which ended Sunday, Peturrson was defeated in his last two games and ended in a second-place tie with Bullock, each rink with a 6-3 record. They play off tonight at 6.30 and the winner meets Gutoski at 9 Thursday evening in a game which counts in the zone playdown, also a round-robin affair.

Late games in the Victoria playoff produced a number of upsets and near-upsets. Peturrson, winner of six of his first seven games, appeared to be a cinch after Friday's play with only Bullock and Frank Garroway, each 4-3, having a chance to tie him. Bullock stayed in contention by besting Peturrson, 10-7, in a well-curled game but Garroway lost his chance when Eric Smeaton's rink took a 14-8 verdict.

That prolonged it to the last draw, on Sunday afternoon, with Bullock needing a victory over Smeaton plus the help of Bill Dunstan's rink to force a tie.

Dunstan did his job, scoring four on the seventh end to take a 7-3 lead and following up with three on the 10th after Peturrson had come back to 7-6. The final score was 12-10. Meanwhile, Bullock was having his troubles with Smeaton, who took a 10-8 lead on the 10th end and appeared to be certain to count one on the 11th. But Bullock made a beautiful running shot past a guard with last rock, raised shot rock out of the house, and stuck to count four and take a 12-10 lead into the final end. Smeaton just missed forcing an extra end, rolling out on a lost-shot takeout to count one instead of two.

Earlier in the round-robin, Max Zabel curled an excellent game to upset Bullock with a late rally and Smeaton upset Dunstan in a game which kept the latter from making it a three-rink playoff.

Final standings after the nine draws showed Gutoski with 18 points, Bullock and Peturrson with 12, Dunstan with 10, Sid Hole and Garroway with eight, Smeaton and Zabel with six and Charlie Watson and Woods with four.

UP-ISLAND RINKS READY: Alberni Valley, Cowichan and Nanaimo Curling Clubs have also completed local playoffs to decide which two rinks will represent their areas in the eight-rink final.

From Nanaimo, as expected, it will be the rinks skipped by George Lunn and Bill Karjala. They won out in the six-rink round-robin series, Lunn completing his five games without losing and Karjala losing only to Lunn.

Lunn has the same rink which did so well in last year's B.C. Consols playdowns, scheduled this year for Kamloops starting on February 7. Don McRae is at third, Art Quinney at second and Jack Whitlam throws lead rocks. With Karjala are Bev Smiley, third; Gene Koster, second, and Ed Miles, lead.

Alberni is sending rinks skipped by Bill Osborne and Harry Spottiswood, winners in a four-rink playoff. Osborne's crew won all three games while Spottiswood, Ed Price and Bob Reid each wound up with 2-1 records and had to play another series. Spottiswood then won from Reid and Price in that order to qualify.

Curling with Osborne are Warren Paul, third; Gordon Campbell, second, and George Balmer, lead. Bill Wood will throw third rocks for Spottiswood, George Compton is at second and George Martin at lead.

Tony Folk and Stan McKellar will skip the Duncan entries. Both had 2-1 records in the four-rink playoff there. Billy Thomas is Folk's vice-skip while Harvey Hodge will throw second rocks and Denny Hogan lead rocks. Al Berkey is third for McKellar, Glen Berkey is second and Pete Prest is lead.

* * *

SHORT SHOTS: Frank Thomas, third for Tony Folk's Duncan rink, is a first-year Indian curler, who, it is reported, shows great promise . . . Each of the eight zone finalists in British Consols play three draws Saturday and Sunday in the seven-game round-robin with the top two rinks to get the cherished trip to Kamloops for the chance at representing B.C. in the Macdonald Brier . . . The other game is played between district representatives on their own ice and Alberni's Bill Osborne took an early lead by besting Harry Spottiswood . . . Consols curlers will be guests at a banquet at the VCC at 6.30 Saturday night . . .

Hundreds in Tournament

More than 220 shuttle enthusiasts are entered in the annual Victoria badminton championships tournament which opened last night at the Amphion Street hall of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club. Last night's competition was limited to handicap events and play in the open divisions will get under way Wednesday. Snapped last night while awaiting their turn on the courts were, left to right, Bob Hunt, Marlene Briggs, Ken Douglas, Barbara Savale, Eric Hobberson and Len Tolson.

Sunday's scores: Montreal 7, at New York 1; Toronto 1 at Boston 1; Detroit 8, Chicago 2 (at St. Louis).

Next game: Wednesday, Toronto at New York; Boston at Chicago.

A full slate of games Sunday night saw the four top teams in the NHL gain ground on the two trailers with the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs losing a point to the two leaders.

Montreal's crowd-pleasing Canadiens showed the largest crowd of the season in New York's Madison Square Garden just why they are leading the league. Apparently approving the earlier 7 p.m. starting time, 13,607 fans turned out to boo and, later, laugh at the Rangers as Canadiens smashed their way to an easy 7-1 victory. The Rangers have won only once in their last 20 games.

At St. Louis, Detroit's second-place Red Wings stayed four points behind Montreal by walloping Chicago Black Hawks, 6-2. In the third game, at Boston, the Leafs managed a 1-1 tie with the Bruins.

Jean Beliveau scored the first two goals of the game at New York on plays with linemates Boom Boom Geoffrion and Bert Olmstead. Then Maurice Richard helped Geoffrion to the first of two goals before Dean Prentice spoiled the shutout for Jacques Plante.

Geoffrion's four-point evening boosted his lead in the individual scoring race to three points over linemate Beliveau. Geoffrion has 49 points, including the league high of 27 goals.

In third place is Richard with 39 points, two more than Olmstead, who picked up three assists Sunday.

Dutch Reibel, former Western Hockey League scoring champion, led the Wings to victory with three goals, two of them set up by Marcel Bonin, another WHL grad. Gordie Howe, moving up steadily in the scoring list, got one goal, his 18th, to boost his point total to 34. The Wings dominated play after Reibel's first goal, late in the first period, tied the score.

At Boston, the Bruins went ahead when rookie Don McKenney scored while Toronto played a man short. The tight-checking Bruins almost made that one enough but Rudy Migay got a backhander past John Henderson with nine seconds of the second period left.

Club Answers Parting Shot

DERBY, England (CP) — Directors of the Derby County soccer team have issued a statement taking issue with a complaint by Canada-bound player Bert Mozley.

Mozley, on his way to take over a Calgary hotel, had said he was "shocked and annoyed" to receive a bonus of £100 on leaving the club. He would have been entitled in May to a full benefit of £750.

In reply, Derby directors noted Mozley had told them he would go to Canada whether or not the club released him. In addition, his family had been given permission to live in a house supplied rent-free by the club for a further three months, though it was "urgently required for another player."

Mozley sailed for Canada January 8. His wife and two daughters plan to join him later.

Laurie Kerr's 72 Wins First Round

BY HARRY YOUNG

Recent revert from the professional ranks, Laurie Kerr of Colwood, is quickly making his presence felt among the local golfing amateurs.

On Sunday at Colwood in the first round of the second series of winter medal competitions, Laurie finished two strokes ahead of the field with 72.

This, put him two strokes ahead of George Andrews, the Colwood champion, whom he is due to partner next Sunday at Uplands in a buttons game against Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs.

Winner of the first winter medal was Bob Fleming with 78, while Vic Painter was third best with 75.

FROSTY GREENS

Tricky greens that early in the day had an ice-hard surface made it difficult to score well. In addition the course was played at its full championship stretch, and it took wooden club second shots for the majority to get home at half-a-dozen holes.

Ice on the water in front of the fourth also caused trouble. Bill McColl took a seven at this hole when his ball lying on thin ice plopped under the water as soon as he attempted to play the shot.

Andrews' round of 74, less his handicap of three, gave the Colwood champion the net prize, while Harold Lineham 76-4—72 came next.

All four prizes were won by Colwood golfers.

Scores:

L. Kerr (C)	72
G. Andrews (C)	74
Vic Painter (C)	75

Vic High Booters Win Tune-Up Against Navy

Victoria High School, Colonist Cup soccer champions, yesterday won the first of several exhibition games planned to keep them in trim for the B.C. High School finals in Vancouver, edging out a Navy team, 6-5, at the Vic High grounds.

Students led, 3-2, at the half, on goals by Den Atkinson, Norm Kowalyk and Dunc McCaig, and then divided six goals with the Sailors in the second half. Terrence Cowan, Navy centre-forward, was easily the standout player on the field. He scored both of his club's first-half goals and added two more in a space of 30 seconds in the last half.

Next tune-up game for Vic High is scheduled for Lansdowns Park tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 with the Normal School XI providing the opposition.

Swedes Upset Red Pucksters

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Sweden scored a surprise 5-2 victory over Russia in a hockey game before 30,000 fans here Sunday.

The win gave the Swedes a 7-6 total-goals edge in the two-game exhibition competition. The Russians, who won the world championship in Stockholm last year, defeated the Swedes 4-2 Friday night.

The Swedes, who previously lost two games to the Russians at home, appeared the better team Sunday.

Taximen Bounce Back To Edge Clippers, 4-3

Navy	16	6	10	2	58	88	169
Drake Hotel	17	3	11	1	64	91	324

Last night's scores: Navy 5, Drake Hotel 4; Nanaimo 4, C & C Taxi 4.

Next game, Saturday: Navy at Nanaimo.

C & C Taxi, rebounding from a humiliating 15-2 defeat at Nanaimo Saturday night, edged the league-leading Nanaimo Clippers, 4-3, at Memorial Arena last night to consolidate their second-place Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League position.

Former league scoring champion Toby Brown, making his second start of the season, gave the Taximen their victory, turning Joe Evans' pass into the net for the winning goal with less than a minute remaining.

Another last-minute goal proved the difference in the opening tussle on the two-game card, when Bruce Cooke connected with nine seconds left to give Navy a 5-4 triumph over Drake Hotel.

RUSH OPENING

The Taximen, still smarting from the nightmare at Nanaimo, opened with a rush and moved into a 3-0 lead as they outplayed the Clippers through most of the first two periods. Indifferent checking allowed Nanaimo to launch a third-period assault that knotted the count with five minutes to play and set the stage for Brown's game-winning effort.

Former members of the Victoria Cougars also had a big hand in the C & C victory. Don Ashbee rapped in the first two goals and Evans laid down three scoring passes.

Ashbee intercepted a Nanaimo pass and moved in to beat goalie Walt Davis in the opening 24 seconds and boosted the winners into a 2-0 lead early in the second session.

SOLID LEAD

Hard-working Ron Bremner converted a double relay from Evans and Ashbee to give the Taximen an apparently safe 3-0 lead at 9.40 of the second session.

Nanaimo's Bruno Furlin was still sitting out a second-period roughing penalty when the Clippers counted their first goal. Earl Robinson stole the puck from Ashbee and went in alone to beat goalie George Hall with a backhand shot.

Hall, who got little help from his defensemen during the final session, moved quickly to save from Mel Gordeau and Joe Zuback before Zuback got the puck away from Bernie Strongman and set Bud Dumont up for the second tally at 9.32.

LONG SHOT

Zuback fired the tying goal, taking a relay from Dumont and driving a 25-footer that slipped through Hall's hand into the net.

Hall made a good stop against Dumont just before the Taximen broke out of their own end. Evans carried the puck into the left corner and Brown made no mistake as the pass came across the goal mouth.

Scrambly play marked the first two periods of the opening clash as the Sailors forged into a 4-0 lead against the ineffective efforts of the Drake Hotel squad.

It was a different story in the third stanza as the hostlers pinned the Tars in their own zone most of the way and all but grabbed the decision in a furious last-minute scramble.

FOUR IN ROW

Sam Campbell sent Navy in front with a solo effort. Russ McKay made it 2-0 25 seconds later at 7.05 and John Merrifield boosted the score to 3-0 before the first period ended. Joe Wood counted Navy's fourth goal 24 seconds into the second period.

Drakes lost little time in breaking into the scoring column in the final period as Art Green ended Fred Currah's shutout bid with an unassisted goal at 17 seconds.

Green added another tally and Norm Kowalyk and Walt Harris fired shots behind Currah to tie the score with 10 minutes remaining.

CHANCE MISSED

Drakes had their best chance to upset the Sailors in a last-minute melee in front of the Navy goal when Archie Courtnall took Les Corby's pass at the edge of the crease, but missed a corner.

Orville Coulter broke out of the scramble, carried the puck down the right side and slid across the pass that gave Cooke the opening for his winning shot.

Sunday's score: Esquimalt 4, Victoria West 4.

Esquimalt rallied for two goals midway through the second half to earn a 4-4 draw with Victoria West in a Victoria and District Football League first division game at Central Park Sunday.

In second division matches Sunday, Wood Motors, Butler Bros. and Tillicums chalked up victories to move into the second round of the Oliver Memorial Cup competition.

Goals came in a hurry at the start of the contest at Central Park, where the first-division clubs staged a good exhibition of soccer despite the soggy condition of the pitch.

Each club banged in a pair of goals in the opening 12 minutes. Whitey Turner and Chuck Mills scored for Wests while Paul Calvey and Denny Shubrook tallied for second-place Esquimalt.

GOALIE SHINES

Esquimalt netminder Archie Pednault stopped the Wests on several dangerous sorties before Charlie Forrester gave the Wests a 3-2 half-time lead with a goal at 40 minutes.

Mills boosted the score to 4-2 nine minutes into the second half as he blasted a cross from Tim Walker past Pednault.

Ken Barnes started the Dockyarders on their comeback, scoring on a header after 22 minutes. Two minutes later Glen Underwood tied it up on a long shot that dropped into the goal just over goalie Norm Dickie's hands.

Butler Bros. blanked Punjab United, 6-0, in Oliver Cup play. Tillicums ousted Combines, 2-0, and Wood Motors moved into the second round by thumping Dutch Wanderers, 10-1.

Bud Brice and Jim Harrison scored the only goals in Tillicums' victory. Gary Crowe collected three tallies for Butler Bros. George Robbins scored twice and Bill Abbot once.

Wally Milligan and Archie Taylor each connected on four scoring shots against Wanderers while Dick Nellystin picked up the losers' only goal.

Lions Steady Losers —Except for Money

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The British Columbia Lions lost all but one game on their Western Interprovincial Football Union schedule last year, but they more than earned their keep.

The club had a surplus of $58,763 following its first year in WIFU competition, officials reported Sunday night.

Voluble coach Annis Stukus told club directors: "A lot of people thought I was brought here to sell football, not to coach it. This year I hope I can show you I know a little bit about coaching."

Regarding the surplus, Stukus said: "Now we're going to get the players we need, not the ones we can afford."

Lions' president Don McKenzie added that money was no object when it came to player purchases this year.

SPORTS REVUE

By Jimmy Cannon

NEW YORK (NANA)—The fight managers of old were rogues, but they had more style. Now they seem to be grim plotters who find no fun in the racket. When I covered boxing there were guys like Joe Jacobs, Jimmy Kelly, Hymie Caplin, Harry Lenny and Jack Kearns. Only Kearns murmurous with dreams, is still in action.

There was a party in a suite in a Chicago hotel before the Joe Louis-Jimmy Braddock fight. The Giants were in town and the ball writers attended. There were mob guys present and theatrical people and the loud business men who tail along after celebrities of any kind.

The place was crowded when a guy called me aside. He pointed to a red-headed man.

"Whose that guy?" he asked.

"Red Patterson," I replied. "He works for the Trib."

"You sure?" he demanded. "Positive," I replied. "Why?"

"Joe Jacobs told me he was a racket guy from New York and he had a pistol on him," the fellow said.

I don't remember ever telling Patterson, who now works for the Dodgers, about this. But the guy was so angry he almost slugged Jacobs and asked him to leave.

* * *

There were times—when Jacobs was drinking—that he couldn't decided whether he would pretend to be a detective or a tough guy. One night we were sitting in a night club on 52nd Street.

"You got the machine guns?" asked Jacobs in a loud voice.

The people around us were frightened and some got up and moved away. I tried to placate him.

"Get the machine guns," he said, "and we'll take care of these guys."

The boss of the joint, who knew Jacobs was a harmless fellow, asked him to leave. But he had already scared a lot of customers out of the joint.

There was another night when Jacobs and I arrived at a saloon at 4 a.m. The proprietor was Jacobs' friend. He explained it was too late to sell us a drink but he put a bottle on the bar and told us to drink on the house. Jacobs tossed off a shot.

"You're pinched," he hollered.

The bartender froze. The boss was astonished.

"I'm locking you up for selling booze after the curfew," Jacobs said. "I made a buy and got you dead to rights."

He started for the telephone booth and was going to dial police headquarters when I stopped him.

* * *

One night I dropped into the dressing room before a fight. Harry Lenny was staring at a fighter who sat on a rubbing table. The guy was fascinated by Lenny's expression.

"You'll knock him out," he said and said it over and over again.

He said that and nothing else until it came time to go into the ring. The kid was knocked out, but Lenny had an excuse.

"He didn't pay attention to me," he said.

* * *

Jimmy Kelly bet only on favorites. He was managing a minor featherweight who was 1-4 in the main event at St. Nick's. Kelly backed his pug with a fortune, recklessly laying the price. His guy was knocked out. I met him a week afterward.

"My guy went in the tank," Kelly told me. "They give him $250 to lay down and I bet $12,000 he was going to win. Two fifty he takes!"

It was when Toots Shor was running the tavern on 48th Street. Kearns, who had been idle for years, came into town with Jimmy Adamick. The manager ordered champagne and sent it to everyone he knew in the place. At closing time, there were about a half dozen parties in the place.

"Give me everybody's check," Kearns said.

He signed the tabs and then turned to Shor.

"Lend me a C-note," Kearns asked.

Shor gave him the hundred and Kearns distributed it in tips to the help and left.

"Ain't it great," said Joey Maxim recently, "that a bum like me can afford a manager like Kearns?"

* * *

Most of them from that time died broke. But they had a lot of fun making themselves insolvent. The ethics of the fight racket haven't improved. But the old managers were original and most of them were witty and they didn't act with the stealth of guys selling furs from a truck. Somehow even the larceny had an innocent quality. But I was younger then.

Sharp Flurries Of Bobby Bell Wreck Garcia

BROOKLYN (UP)—Slender Bobby Bell of Youngstown, O., punching in savage flurries like a cat at a bulldog, ruined Rudy Garcia's chances for a quick shot at the featherweight crown by winning a unanimous upset decision over the Los Angeles Mexican at Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

Bell, 126½, to Garcia's 128, went into the ring a 2-1 underdog but his remarkable flurries of combination hooks—to the head and repeated left hooks to the same spot left Garcia bloodied and beaten at the finish.

Garcia, the world's fourth-ranking featherweight contender, was scheduled to confer today with a representative of the International Boxing Club regarding a possible title shot with Sandy Saddler at Los Angeles or San Francisco in February.

Bell shuffled constantly toward Garcia, but forced Garcia to do the leading. And, when the muscular Mexican did the leading, Bell countered with machine-gun flurries.

Some of the smallest of frogs are smaller than a penny.

Stylish Young Gene Littler Wins Los Angeles Open.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Gene Littler, 1953 amateur golf champion who has been picked by most to succeed Ben Hogan as leader of the pros, Sunday won his first major triumph since turning professional less than a year ago.

The 23-year-old stylist, who plays out of Palm Springs, Calif., came in with a sparkling 69 to win the $5,000 first prize in the annual Los Angeles Open golf tournament. Littler had a well-played 276 for the 72 holes.

Littler was often sensational in the late stages. He went out in 33 and came back in 69, practically making certain of the win on the 15th hole by canning a 60-foot chip shot.

LEADERS FADE

While Littler was playing fine golf, Saturday's leaders were having troubles. Eric Monti, top man after 54 holes with 205, collapsed to come in with a 77 for 282. Gardiner Dickinson, next to Monti with 206, could do no better than a 76 for the last 18 and Jay Hebert, who started the last round even with Littler at 207, also had 76.

Littler opened with a 72 and then shot sub-par golf with 67-68-69 for the last three rounds.

Finishing second with three successive 69s was Ted Kroll, who edged out Johnny Bulla, 278-279.

Eddie Draper of Seattle won the amateur division with 287. Lou Jennings of Pasadena was second with 290.

Hoop Oldtimers Out to Defend Seven-Year Winning Streak

One of the more remarkable, and one of the least noted, winning streaks in Victoria sport could well be shattered Friday night when the Victoria High Totems wage their annual battle against the all-time Vic High basketball greats.

On the surface, the seven-game victory skein owned by the old-timers may not appear an outstanding one, even though it now stretches over seven years.

However, most of the oldsters, all former Vic High students who have played on Canadian championship hoop clubs, were members of those teams while still of high school age and, despite the long absence from competition, have continued to turn back the Totems.

Many of the present students have no recollection of the great Blue Ribbon and Domino teams that wrote their stories into Canadian basketball history.

With the average age of the Oldtimers now around 40, the [illegible] this will be the time they finally walk off with the victory they have eagerly anticipated each January for the past few years.

They almost made it in their last meeting. But the veterans dug down into their bag of hoop tricks, gulped a few precious mouthfuls of air and puffed to a 45-39 win.

PRACTICE SUGGESTED

One sign that the handwriting may be on the wall is the fact that Porky Andrews, who also coaches the Totems, has suggested to the Oldtimers that they part from tradition and take a brief practice workout this year to scrape a little rust from their shooting arms.

Among the former stars who may join the liniment brigade at Victoria High gymnasium Friday are Andrews, Chuck and Art Chapman, Busher Jackson, Claude Sluggett, Ian Jackson, Alex McKeachie, Ollie Goldsmith, Doug Peden, Hank Rowe and Red Martin.

Many Cases Listed For Appeal Court

Sixty-two criminal and civil cases are to be heard by the British Columbia Court of Appeal, which begins sittings in Victoria today.

There are 39 criminal including one murder and three manslaughter cases, convictions, and 23 civil cases.

Dates of hearings for many cases will be set today by the court, whose first case will involve a Crown appeal from the four months' sentence against Crispin Zalinko, of Courtenay.

ASSAULT CHARGE

He was convicted of assaulting a provost corps member at Comox RCAF station in December.

Peter Bordenuik of Nanaimo will appeal his conviction on a charge of murdering his wife.

Colin MacDonald of Vancouver, Leo Deverreau of New Westminster and Peter Mauchel of Vancouver are appealing separate manslaughter convictions.

Mrs. Philp Laid to Rest

Funeral services were held yesterday in St. Mary's Church for Mrs. Nellie Faith Philp, an active church worker for many years, who died Friday in hospital.

Mrs. Philp was the widow of Capt. F. E. L. Philp, and had been a resident of Oak Bay for 30 years. She taught Sunday school at St. Mary's Church for many years, belonged to the Altar Guild and was a past president of the Women's Guild, and was also a member of St. Matthias' Women's Auxiliary and the board of the Columbia Coast Mission.

She is survived by a brother, Mordaunt Dundas, and a sister, Mrs. Violet Norman, in Victoria, and a step-sister, Mrs. Lottie Haig, in England, as well as a nephew and two nieces in Victoria.

Ven. Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns will officiate at the funeral service and burial will be at Royal Oak.

City Scouts To Be Sent To Jamboree

Victoria expects to send 32 Boy Scouts this year to a history-making event at Niagara-on-the-Lake, the first world Scout jamboree on the North American continent, a Scout official said yesterday.

Ten thousand Scouts and leaders from more than 100 countries are expected to attend the "Jamboree of New Horizons."

Only first-class Scouts may attend, and Victoria plans to send a troop of 32 boys.

Plans will be discussed January 26 at the annual meeting of the Victoria and District Boy Scouts' Association.

Remember When:

Billy Burch of the New York Americans led the NHL scoring parade 28 years ago today with 13 goals and seven assists, but was in eighth place when the season ended. Top scorers at the close of league play in 1928 were Bill Cook of Rangers, 33 goals and four assists, and Dick Irvin of Chicago, 18 goals and 18 assists.

The "Diet of Worms"" was a council called in 1521 by the Emperor Charles V to try Martin Luther for his teachings.

Teachers Ask Total Boost of $112,000 But Hopes Slim of Trustees' Approval

A rearranged teachers' salary schedule that would add $112,000, or about 5 per cent, to the $2,200,000 payroll was presented to the Greater Victoria School Board last night by a delegation from the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

Mrs. H. D. Hodson, [illegible]

The school board invited the delegation to appear with the press present, Trustee Gobly said, so that "the taxpayers can consider at their breakfast tables what they should pay good teachers. It is entirely essential that municipal councils should support us in keeping teachers pay fair."

"In view of the situation regarding school finances, the board has no intention of accepting the BCTF salary schedule this year," he said. "But we are willing to take certain steps toward getting our teachers into government categories."

Pierced Ears Old Stuff Here, Even Older on Salt Spring

Boy Editor, 10, Out for Blood

VANCOUVER (CP) — The three daily newspapers in Vancouver have been promised plenty of competition from the editor of a new tabloid which plays up police news.

First word of the new paper came when Alan Woodsworth, 10, grandson of J. S. Woodsworth, the founder of the CCF party, stalked into the detective office at police headquarters here Friday.

He placed his brief case on the counter and asked for information on the robbery-murder of a Chinese grocer. Alan identified himself as editor of the Mesa Monthly Journal.

Police, tight-lipped around Vancouver newspapermen, refused to talk. "The detectives working on the case are all out," Insp. Lem Munn said.

"I'll call back later," the editor said.

Then it was his turn to be interviewed.

Reporters found the first issue of the Mesa Monthly Journal, he named it that because he likes the sound of it, will be published sometime this month and Alan is counting on the murder story for page one.

Alan, who attends a private school, explained that, since he has to type out each copy, then deliver them himself, circulation won't be very extensive at first.

He's busy at other things too. He runs a free lending library for neighbors and friends and has staged a four-act play which he wrote and directed. The play, "Birth of Our Christ," will be acted out by friends.

"I'm pretty busy," Alan admitted.

Society Holds Annual Dinner

British Columbia's pioneers had the qualities that Rudyard Kipling always urged upon his countrymen, Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, told the Kipling Society at its annual dinner Saturday night at the Strathcona Hotel.

Kipling's words, he said, have been an inspiration to many and good advice for everyone.

Capt. J. D. Prentice told members about a recent visit he and his wife made to "Bateman's," in Sussex, a former home of Kipling.

Arthur Jackman and K. C. Symons provided entertainment.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser
Don't Brush Your Plates!
Soak Them in Polident
As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. D-118

What's news at Inco?

One man can shovel 200 tons a day

The "slusher" shown here is a scraper powered by a 125-horsepower motor. With this machine one man can move 3 tons of ore along a passage and drop it down a chute with one "pass".

Such developments, involving the investment of millions of dollars, are a must at Inco because men with hand shovels just could not move 50,000 tons of ore each day.

Machines like the "slusher" are safe, efficient tools and are absolutely necessary to the profitable operation of great mines like Inco's.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices closed irregularly after showing an easier tone throughout most of the session.

Declines on United States markets, due to moisture in the American winter wheat areas, contributed to the early downward trend here as selling came into the market.

Sharp-Eyed Victorians Spot Long-Nosed Monster

Caddy's nose is about a foot long, S. M. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, agree. The pair sighted Caddy in Cordova Bay.

Mrs. John M. Wyper thought she was first to spot Caddy yesterday, but the Hobbs household had seen it earlier.

Waves Wreak Havoc

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Waves blasted 200 feet up the rocky cliffs of St. John's harbor Monday in the worst storm in memory, tearing down wharves and fishing stages by the score.

Giant waves 100 feet across churned through the narrow harbor entrance most of the day and occasional breakers shot more than 200 feet into the air.

Fort Amherst, 132 feet above sea level, was dripping as the huge breakers shot water over its glass dome.

Shattered timbers littered the frothy water as wharf after wharf fell victim to high seas in the usually calm harbor.

Spectators swarmed up historic Signal Hill where Marconi received his first wireless message 54 years ago to watch the angry water as fishermen worked feverishly to save what gear they could.

Veteran fishermen said they couldn't recall anything like it. There were no injuries.

Raymond Riche, one dory fisherman, saw his wharf split under the constant pressure of the seas and it slowly was pulled out to sea, carrying with it his traps, winch, boom and a stack of timber.

Ripple Rock First Stage Plans Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver geologist said Monday the first stage has been completed for removal of Ripple Rock, British Columbia's "graveyard of ships."

Dr. Victor Dolmage, asked by the federal government to study a report prepared by a national research advisory committee, said the "first stage" of his plans now is completed and on its way to Ottawa.

In the throne speech last week the government announced plans for destruction of the navigation hazard, 125 miles north of here. The project is expected to cost about $2,000,000.

Dr. Dolmage is known to favor tunneling into the rock and filling it with explosives. The detonation of 500,000 pounds of explosive is expected to blow the top off the rock and leave a 40-foot-deep channel clear for navigation.

Busy Serpent Sighted Again

'Awfully Big Loon' Just Caddy After Duck Dinner

When Cadborosaurus or some other sea monster swam past the Cordova Bay home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hobbs a couple of weeks ago, Mr. Hobbs called it to the attention of his friend John M. Wyper farther along the bay.

So when the monster swam by looking for a duck dinner yesterday about 3.30 p.m., Mrs. Wyper telephoned Mr. Hobbs.

But Mr. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, already had seen it.

Mr. Hobbs looked up from his chore of sawing wood on the beach and saw Caddy—or some other strange creature, because he says there must be "heaven knows how many kinds"—about 35 feet away. Mrs. Hobbs watched at the same time from a window above the beach.

Other persons who have seen Cadborosaurus recently at Sooke and Albert Head have described the animal as having a head as big as a horse's, rising a foot or 18 inches above the water, and a second hump which rose from the water and sank from view at the same time as the head.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Smith, who saw Caddy at Sooke a week ago, said it had a short, blunt nose. They said it appeared jet black and shiny, and appeared to have ears or horns.

Jack Daley and Jack Salisbury, who saw Caddy while they were fishing at Albert Head on November 20, said it at first appeared black, but up close turned out to be light fawn in color. It appeared to have a long, V-shaped nose when they saw it heading toward them, but a side view indicated its head was "like a frog's in shape, bulgy on top."

Mrs. Wyper, who lives at 5051 Cordova Bay Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs, who live at the foot of Walema Avenue, saw only the head of the monster—on hump. The head, they said, was light brown, and the nose about a foot long. No neck was visible.

"I saw a stirring in the water," Mrs. Wyper said. "I thought, 'That's an awfully big loon.'

"Then, by jove, up came this big head, brown, or rather, like this window sill (light brown) in color.

"Mr. Hobbs called Mr. Wyper on the last occasion, so I called him this time, but he had already seen it."

Mrs. Wyper, who was in a boat with friends last summer when one of them saw a big head rise out of the water, said the sea birds are afraid of the monster.

"First all the seagulls get up in the air," she said, "and then they must communicate what they fear to the ducks, because the ducks, which don't usually fly, get off the water too."

Mr. Hobbs, pulling calmly on his pipe, agreed that the creature "is definitely after ducks."

It came up near one duck, which flew away, he said, then submerged and didn't come up until it was close to the next duck in sight, about 300 yards away.

"It's not what everyone calls Caddy—that thing with the lobs," he said.

"It had a round head, a snout a foot long, and we could just see water under the snout. There was no long neck showing. We couldn't see any eyes. It probably has small eyes. And there was no sign of ears. It was a light fawny color."

"This thing obviously follows the coastline," Mrs. Hobbs interjected. "It could easily be walking along the bottom and sticking its head and shouders up and grabbing ducks from underneath, I think."

(The water at Cordova Bay is shallow just offshore.)

"It just goes up and down without any commotion," Mr. Hobbs said. "It hasn't a rolling motion, like a porpoise or a killer whale."

What they saw 10 days or two weeks ago was exactly the same thing, he added. They were having lunch at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs have been residents of the coast since 1908, and have seen most of the usual marine creatures.

"And dad isn't a person who would ever exaggerate," Mrs. Hobbs said.

Mrs. Wyper also has seen "seals, porpoises, whales and sea lions — what we call old grandfather walruses—and all those things," but she is sure the sea monster is none of them.

Court Agrees Nudes Just Part of Landscape

EDINBURGH (AP)—David George Henderson Monday was acquitted of selling indecent books after his lawyer told the court: "This is the age of the pin-up girl: the age of the Bikini bathing costume. These books were merely pictures of nude women. They are part of the modern 20th century landscape. There is nothing suggestive about them."

Congress Viewed By Anxious Eyes

OTTAWA (CP) — Deep anxiety reigns in trade quarters here as officials watch to see what Congress will do with President Eisenhower's proposals to reduce United States tariffs and clip customs red tape.

For almost two years—ever since Prime Minister St. Laurent made a personal appeal to President Eisenhower—the Canadian government has been waiting for the U.S. to take a "bold lead" toward progress in freeing world trade.

American moves have been discouraging, but spirits here were lifted slightly Monday when President Eisenhower appealed to the new Congress to reduce American tariffs by 5 per cent annually over a period of three years, to simplify U.S. import procedure and increase the duty-free allowances for American tourists.

Canadian trade and finance officials said an over-all reduction in American tariffs of 15 per cent is not large, but it is a "move in the right direction." There still were a lot of anxiety and doubts, however, as to whether the program will get through Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress again Monday for power to lower tariffs 15 per cent as part of a program to improve foreign trade and strengthen "the forces of freedom" in their struggles against communism.

"It is essential for the security of the United States and the rest of the free world," Eisenhower said in a special message, "that the United States take the leadership in promoting the achievement of those high levels of trade that will bring to all the economic strength upon which the freedom and security of all depends."

As the president himself noted, the "moderate, gradual, reciprocal program" he proposed was largely a repitition of the one that got nowhere in the last Congress.

The heart of it is a renewed request to continue the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for three years, with additional authority for Eisenhower to cut tariffs by five per cent each year. He promised there would be "no sudden or radical tariff reductions."

Fairey Demands Pension Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—A First World War veteran who describes himself as a rebel on the matter of war veterans' allowances said last night it's not true that service in battle ages a man prematurely. At least not every man.

Lt.-Col. Frank T. Fairey, Liberal member for Victoria, said in the Commons the allowances were set initially on the unwarranted assumption that those who served in battle areas are prematurely old.

Col. Fairey said some veterans have been impaired physically and mentally.

He suggested standards be set up whereby veterans could prove disability by reason of battle fatigue and become eligible for disability pensions instead of veterans' allowances.

Measure Hits B.C. Plan

Ottawa Acts Fast On Water Control

New Legislation Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government Monday proposed to tighten its grip on the use of water in international rivers and to loosen its control over the export of gas and oil.

Two measures introduced in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe — the first government bills of the session—would:

1. Require anyone—including a provincial government—to get a federal license for any works affecting the flow on the Canadian side of a river running into the United States.

2. Remove the federal government's power to impose export duties on gas, oil and other fluids, while retaining this authority for electricity exports.

3. Cut down the government's unrestricted authority to cancel licenses for these exports.

4. Make a federal license necessary for the import of gas.

DISAGREEMENT

The water measure originated in part from a disagreement between the federal and British Columbia governments over the use of Columbia River water for electricity, and its passage would assure the central government of the whip hand in that dispute.

It would enable the cabinet here to block a pending arrangement between B.C. and the Kaiser aluminum interests of the U.S. for the use of Columbia River water to generate power for Kaiser. Federal authorities consider the deal would not give B.C. sufficient returns and would not conform to longrange planning for Columbia development.

The bill would impose penalties for violation ranging from a $500 fine to a $5,000 fine plus five years' imprisonment. Works constructed in violation of the act would be forfeited to the government.

The licensing and penalty provisions would be waived for a period of one year for projects in existence on the day the measure came into force.

FAVORABLE EFFECT

The relaxation of gas-oil export provisions, federal authorities said, should have a favorable effect on U.S. federal power commission treatment of two applications involving huge Canadian natural gas pipeline projects.

These are the $300,000,000 Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., proposal to bring gas east from Alberta and Westcoast Transmission Company's $100,000,000 project to carry Peace River area gas through British Columbia and into the United States. Both involve heavy sales in the U.S. market.

An original bid by Westcoast to reach the U.S. market was rejected by the U.S. commission last year, largely on the ground of claimed uncertainty as to continuity of supply should the Canadian government revoke Westcoast's export license.

Under the new bill, the government's unlimited revocation authority would be reduced to cases where a licensee breached the conditions of his license and refused to comply after the violation had been drawn to his attention.

NEVER EXERCISED

Removal of duty-imposing powers on exports of gas and oil eliminates a provision that has never been exercised. However, a duty on electricity export has been charged for many years. It amounts to 3-100 cents per kilowatt hour.

Introduction of import licenses for gas, officials said, will give federal authorities a stronger hand in seeing that Canadian markets are filled by Canadian gas when it is available.

A permit from the federal board of transport commissioners already is needed to construct and operate pipelines carrying gas across the border.

The new bill will replace the 1907 Electricity and Fluid Exportation Act. It would come into effect on a date to be proclaimed by the cabinet after parliamentary passage.

'Revolt' Staged By Lepers

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Police reinforcements were sent by speedboat to Trinidad's leper colony on Chacachacare Island Monday when 300 inmates were reported to have wrested control from settlement authorities.

Reports reaching the mainland said an order ousting Dr. Michael Corros had created such hostility among the lepers that the nuns who care for them had been forced to seek police protection.

The health administration of this British island ordered the superintendent to leave the colony Friday.

Corros was still on the island when his relief, Dr. Young Lao, arrived during the week end. The patients issued an ultimatum, "Dr. Corros or nobody."

In Slaying of Priest

Three Quebec Youths Face Murder Charge

BRANDON (CP)—A charge of murder was read Monday to three Quebec youths in the slaying of a poor Roman Catholic parish priest—shot three times and left to die in his car in a roadside ditch six miles northeast of here.

Police said robbery apparently was the motive for the shooting Sunday of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta. Church authorities said the priest probably would have given his money for the asking—in his tiny parish he was known as "the penniless priest of Edouard" because he was repeatedly giving away even his meagre allowance.

BODY FOUND

The bullet-pierced body of Father Quirion was found by a passing motorist on the floor of his late-model car, which the diocese had given him.

Arraigned in Brandon city police court Monday were Guy Ferragne, 18, of Riviere des Prairies; Claude Paquin, 17, and Gerard J. Yvon De Tonnancourt, 17, both of Montreal. The youths are Roman Catholics.

They were formally charged with morder after the latter two had been transferred from juvenile court. All were remanded one week without plea.

A packed courtroom heard the charge read through a French-speaking interpreter after the three youths had been brought in handcuffed and guarded by RCMP officers.

B.C. Millionaire To Fight $10,000,000 Lien

VANCOUVER (CP)—George W. Norgan, Vancouver millionaire, announced Monday he will fight a $10,000,000 lien filed against him by the United States revenue department.

The lien was filed Friday in San Francisco against Mr. Norgan, one of three Vancouver directors of United Distillers of Canada Ltd. who were indicted by a U.S. federal grand jury in New York last May on charges involving evasion of $17,400,000 in income taxes.

"The allegations against me are false," Mr. Norgan said in a prepared statement released to the press.

"I have not received a dollar of income from any source on which taxes have not been paid. The extravagant amount claimed by the U.S. internal revenue department itself proves its absurdity.

"For my part," Mr. Norgan's statement said, "I do not intend to be the victim of a jumping contest between two governments.

"I have instructed my lawyers to fight the United States government's tax claim."

Isadore J. Klein and Albert McLennan, both of Vancouver, and six U.S. citizens were also indicted by the New York grand jury.

The charges arose out of the wartime sale in the U.S. of Harwood's Canadian whisky. The U.S. government charged that Norgan and three partners invested $1,000 each in a Canadian whisky firm and by the end of the war had made a profit of $20,000,000 on which no taxes were paid.

Mr. Norgan in his statement denied having liquor transactions in the United States.

OTTAWA TAKES SWIFT ACTION TO BLOCK B.C. PLAN

Sharp-Eyed Victorians Spot Long-Nosed Monster

Caddy's nose is about a foot long, S. M. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, agree. The pair sighted Caddy in Cordova Bay.

Mrs. John M. Wyper thought she was first to spot Caddy yesterday, but the Hobbs household had seen it earlier.

Busy Serpent Sighted Again

'Awfully Big Loon' Just Caddy After Duck Dinner

When Cadborosaurus or some other sea monster swam past the Cordova Bay home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hobbs a couple of weeks ago, Mr. Hobbs called it to the attention of his friend John M. Wyper farther along the bay.

So when the monster swam by looking for a duck dinner yesterday about 3.30 p.m., Mrs. Wyper telephoned Mr. Hobbs.

But Mr. Hobbs and his artist wife, Isabel, already had seen it.

Mr. Hobbs looked up from his chore of sawing wood on the beach and saw Caddy—or some other strange creature, because he says there must be "heaven knows how many kinds"—about 35 feet away. Mrs. Hobbs watched at the same time from a window above the beach.

Other persons who have seen Cadborosaurus recently at Sooke and Albert Head have described the animal as having a head as big as a horse's, rising a foot or 18 inches above the water, and a second hump which rose from the water and sank from view at the same time as the head.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Smith, who saw Caddy at Sooke a week ago, said it had a short, blunt nose. They said it appeared jet black and shiny, and appeared to have ears or horns.

Jack Daley and Jack Salsbury, who saw Caddy while they were fishing at Albert Head on November 20, said it at first appeared black, but up close turned out to be light fawn in color. It appeared to have a long, V-shaped nose when they saw it heading toward them, but a side view indicated its head was "like a frog's in shape, bulgy on top."

Mrs. Wyper, who lives at 5051 Cordova Bay Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs, who live at the foot of Walema Avenue, saw only the head of the monster—no hump. The head, they said, was light brown, and the nose about a foot long. No neck was visible.

"I saw a stirring in the water," Mrs. Wyper said. "I thought, 'That's an awfully big loon.'

"Then, by jove, up came this big head, brown, or rather, like this window sill (light brown) in color.

"Mr. Hobbs called Mr. Wyper on the last occasion, so I called him this time, but he had already seen it."

Mrs. Wyper, who was in a boat with friends last summer when one of them saw a big head rise out of the water, said the sea birds are afraid of the monster.

"First all the seagulls get up in the air," she said, "and then they must communicate what they fear to the ducks, because the ducks, which don't usually fly, get off the water too."

Mr. Hobbs, pulling calmly on his pipe, agreed that the creature "is definitely after ducks."

It came up near one duck, which flew away, he said, then submerged and didn't come up until it was close to the next duck in sight, about 300 yards away.

"It's not what everyone calls Caddy—that thing with the loops," he said.

"It had a round head, a snout a foot long, and we could just see water under the snout. There was no long neck showing. We couldn't see any eyes. It probably has small eyes. And there was no sign of ears. It was a light fawny color."

"This thing obviously follows the coastline," Mrs. Hobbs interjected. "It could easily be walking along the bottom and sticking its head and shoulders up and grabbing ducks from underneath, I think."

(The water at Cordova Bay is shallow just offshore.)

"It just goes up and down without any commotion," Mr. Hobbs said. "It hasn't a rolling motion, like a porpoise or a killer whale."

What they saw 10 days or two weeks ago was exactly the same thing, he added. They were having lunch at the time.

Mr and Mrs. Hobbs have been residents of the coast since 1908, and have seen most of the usual marine creatures.

"And dad isn't a person who would ever exaggerate," Mrs. Hobbs said.

Waves Wreak Havoc

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Waves blasted 200 feet up the rocky cliffs of St. John's harbor Monday in the worst storm in memory, tearing down wharves and fishing stages by the score.

Giant waves 100 feet across churned through the narrow harbor entrance most of the day and occasional breakers shot more than 200 feet into the air.

Fort Amherst, 132 feet above sea level, was dripping as the huge breakers shot water over its glass dome.

Shattered timbers littered the frothy water as wharf after wharf fell victim to high seas in the usually calm harbor.

Spectators swarmed up historic Signal Hill where Marconi received his first wireless message 54 years ago to watch the angry water as fishermen worked feverishly to save what gear they could.

Veteran fishermen said they couldn't recall anything like it. There were no injuries.

Raymond Riche, one dory fisherman, saw his wharf split under the constant pressure of the seas and it slowly was pulled out to sea, carrying with it his traps, winch, boom and a stack of timber.

Ripple Rock First Stage Plans Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver geologist said Monday the first stage has been completed for removal of Ripple Rock, British Columbia's "graveyard of ships."

Dr. Victor Dolmage, asked by the federal government to study a report prepared by a national research advisory committee, said the "first stage" of his plans now is completed and on its way to Ottawa.

In the throne speech last week the government announced plans for destruction of the navigation hazard, 125 miles north of here. The project is expected to cost about $2,000,000.

Dr. Dolmage is known to favor tunneling into the rock and filling it with explosives. The detonation of 500,000 pounds of explosive is expected to blow the top off the rock and leave a 40-foot-deep channel clear for navigation.
